

Empowering Business through Spatial Intelligence...

Our survey and property management background gives us unique insights into spatial data. This, combined with our management and GIS qualifications and project experience, has created a skill combination perfectly suited to the application of spatial information technology to operational, management and strategic problems.

Since June 1999 this has been focussed on the municipal market, across a range of functions, giving us a holistic understanding of the municipal environment, coupled with the depth of insight flowing from the development of software and data solutions. It is through this accumulated knowledge and experience that we have full confidence that our services and products are indispensable assets for any municipality.
